

Frontline

Making social work better for children

Consultant social worker Job pack

What is Frontline?

Frontline is England's largest social work charity. Everything we do aims to make life better for children who need a social worker, to help keep them safe from harm and to give them every possible chance to fulfil their potential. We do this through developing excellent social work practice, leadership and innovation.

One of the ways we make this happen is by recruiting and teaching a new, diverse generation of social workers specialising in child protection to join our Frontline programme. The programme is a two-year social work training programme for graduates and career changers delivered in collaboration with the University of Lancaster.

The Consultant Social Worker (CSW) role is pivotal to the participants' first year on the programme, and is a unique opportunity for social workers to step up into a management position whilst continuing to develop their practice skills.

Person specification

To be eligible for the CSW role you need to:

- be a SWE registered social worker (permanent),
- have experience working in child protection social work, and
- have at least two years of social work experience after qualification.

There is no requirement that you have a systemic qualification or prior systemic training. Similarly, you do not need to have been a practice educator or manager of social workers. The CSW role is a full-time position.

All our activity and teaching as a charity has a strong focus on anti-discriminatory practice and inclusion. We cannot develop excellent social work practice and leadership without including a wide variety of voices, experiences and backgrounds. Therefore, we are actively seeking applicants from racialised minority groups for this role.

What does a CSW do?

Management and Leadership

- Have management responsibility for the unit, with management and day to day responsibility of the students in the local authority.
- Lead the weekly unit meetings which: incorporate systemic thinking about families, encourage the students to hold multiple hypotheses, and encourage peer challenge and critical reflection in decision making.
- Hold regular one-to-one supervision with students, encouraging reflexive practice and self-awareness.
- Where performance issues arise, you will address these in a professional way, holding high standards whilst supporting the student to resolve issues.
- Manage the workflow and allocation of work with children and families coming into the unit.
- In conjunction with Frontline, organise the logistics and planning required for the student unit to operate smoothly.
- Ensure all elements of the practice assessments are completed in a timely fashion and regular deadlines are met by students throughout the year.

What does a CSW do?

Practice Educator

- Create valuable learning opportunities for students by identifying appropriate children and families for the unit to work with throughout the year.
- Provide ongoing support and guidance to students for the children and families they work with.
- Use your judgement to expose students to increasingly complex and varied casework at the appropriate level whilst increasing their autonomy as they demonstrate progress.
- Support the students to apply the practice models they have learnt in discussions and work with children and families.
- Regularly observe the students in their direct work with families, giving developmental feedback.
- Track and report on each student's progress through the programme.
- Be the named case holder of all children and families assigned to the unit and responsible for ensuring statutory requirements of the unit's cases are complied with and hold responsibility for decisions in case work.
